Yale swiming team swept everything before it in the intercollegiate swimming championships held in the University of Pennsylvania pool last night, out of the five events on the program, Yale was first in four, and third in the only one her men did not win. Pennsylvania took one first, the esconds and four thirds, while Princeton, the only other members of the association present, had to be content with two seconds.

One intercollegiate record was broken. One intercollegiate record was broken. This was in the plungs for distance in which Sherman, of Yale, made sixty-seven feet, breaking the former record by six inches. This meet was only for the purpose of deciding the individual championship and will not affect in any way the team championship, which was previously won by Princeton. The teams which falled to show up were Harvard, Brown and Columbia, the three weakest in the association.

Although the Pennsylvania team secured but one first, the Quaker's made a splendid showing. Had the points been scored as is usual in these interesting intercollegiate meets, Yale would have won with a score of 21, with Pennsylvania second, at 18. Princeton men were for this meet. Yale used her two star freshmen, Richards and Swartz, and these youngsters made their elders look foolish by the way they scampered in first with the 50-yard and the 100-yar, events. Princeton men were much disappointed over the defeat of the champion short-distance man, Chembers who had to take second in the foreign states of boxing in the United States ochres to boxing in the United States and teating in the United States of the individual and the United States of the sample of the Sulfier of the world in the United States of the sample of the Sulfier of the world in the United States of the sample of the show up were the defeat of the sulfier look foolish by the way they scampered in first with the 50-yard and the 160-yar, events. Princeton men were much disappointed over the defeat of the champion short-distance man, Chambers, who had to take second in both the 50-yard and 100-yard events. Dan Renear was allowed to compete for Pennsylvania. He shone best in the diving contest, where he was an easy first, with Dalrymple, his team-mate, second. Probably the most exciting event of the night was the plunge for distance, in winch Sherman, of Yale, set a new intercollegiate record of 67 feet. DeBow, of Pennsylvania, equaied the former intercollegiate record of 66 feet 6 inches, but he was not quite equal to the task of defeating Sherman.

The pool floor and the gallery were well crowded with spectators, who cheered impartially. Between the events Coach George Kistler entertained the crowd with some novel swimming fears, which were quite as interesting as the other events. The most amusing feature of the program came when the three freshmen, who had perched themselves high on the diving apparatus, were pitched into the water by upper classmen and made to swim about in street dress for the amusement of the crowd. amusement of the crowd.

At this time a week hence all the baseball players should be here and prepared to work out their salvation. the salvation of the Lawmakers. They will be put through a stiff course of training, which should make them as near "fit" as it is possible to make a bunch of as it is possible to make a bunch of minor league; players.

President Jake Wells has called a meeting of the league-owners for tomorrow, when the schedule will be adopted and other matters pertaining to the interests of the league will be disposed of. So far, only three schedules have been sent in from the six cities in the league—one each from Richmond, Portsmouth and Norfolk.

It is not at all likely that there will be any lack of barmony in this meeting. There should be no kicking power the adoption of a schedule, as everything pertaining to it and to the apportionment of the games among the six cities was practically agreed upon at the first meeting, held in February. This will probably be the last meeting of the league before the opening of the season next month.

ship tournament, which opens Monday at the Tennis and Racquet Club in this city.

Three local stars will represent Boston—Joshua Crane, Jr., Austin Potter and J. J. Cairnes. The New York contingent will consist of Jay Gould, Foxhall P. Keene and C. E. Sands.

In point of experience and rating Mr. Crane is the only Bostonian who is regarded as able to cope with the present champion and the other two visitors. Mr. Crane, the former champion, will make a mighty effort to win back his lost laurels, which Mr. Gould took from him last year, and he has practiced faithfully for this big event.

Foxhall P. Keene and C. E. Sands, of the visiting trio, must be reckoned with by Mr. Crane and Mr. Gould, as the pair are determined fighters and know the game thoroughly. Mr. Sands held the championship tweive years ago and has competed in almost every big tournament, which is received in almost every big tournament in the protection of the watchful eye of "Tom" Pettit, and the latter expects his proteges to make a creditate and showing. Two matches will be played each day, with Pettit acting as marker.
